

GREAT DRIVE SEEKS TO CRUSH BERLIN DEFENSE

Reds Break Through Obra River Line, Sweeping Toward Frankfurt

A 29-mile front yesterday. The Russians were the same distance from Berlin as New York is from Philadelphia, and were 55 miles from Stettin. Stockholm heard reports that Soviet spearheads had infiltrated the German lines to within 50 miles of Berlin and that paratroops were operating between the Oder and the capital.

The Soviet army newspaper Red Star said Zhukov's staff officers had been issued maps of the Berlin area and that tanks and trucks were painted with the slogan, "On To Berlin." Moscow reported that Nazi reinforcements were streaming eastward for the battle and that apparently the last strategic reserves were being thrown in.

Near Konigsberg
On other parts of the long front, Russian troops were within two miles of Konigsberg, capital of East Prussia, which was three-fourths encircled. Heavy fighting was in progress in the streets of Poznan, and to the southeast the First Ukrainian Army drove five to six miles across the Oder around Steinau, 31 miles northwest of Breslau.

On the western front the American First and Third Armies overran town after town as they fought to or across the German border, making good progress despite a snowstorm that hampered air support. Bullange, Herresbach, Holzheim, Medendorf and Wereth were among the towns taken, all lying in an arc five to 11 miles northeast of St. Vith.

The British and Canadian fronts to the north and the American Seventh Army sector along the Saar and Palatinate were comparatively quiet yesterday, but field dispatches said there was every indication that a general assault to tie in with the Russian offensive was being prepared. The French were on the move in Alsace and caved in both sides of the Colmar pocket with an attack from the north and south. The report of the capture of Colmar came from Bern, Switzerland.

American Sixth Army troops drove into the swamp-lined Calumpit bottleneck on Luzon to hit the last Japanese defense line 23 miles north of Manila and Tokyo revealed that B-29 Superfortresses made their first attack of the war on the Philippines.

Tokyo reported that single B-29's made several missions over Osaka, Kyoto and Wakayama on the home island of Honshu last night and today, with bombs being dropped on Osaka and Kyoto. Another lone Superfortress, the Japanese said, made a reconnaissance flight over occupied Korea today.

The drive into the Calumpit bottleneck on Luzon swept through the town of San Fernando. The starting point of Gen. Douglas MacArthur's retreat into Bataan three years ago.

LUZON BOMBED BY SUPERFORTS, TOKYO DECLARES

WASHINGTON, Jan. 30—Radio Tokyo said today that B-29 Superfortresses had bombed the Philippines for the first time, hitting installations in Northern Luzon above the Manila-bound American invasion forces.

Thirty-six B-29s participated in the raid, Tokyo said, but reception was so poor that FCC monitors who recorded the broadcast were unable to decipher the rest of the announcement, including the date of the supposed attack.

The Superfortresses presumably came from the Marianas, more than 1,500 miles to the East. Marianas-based B-29s yesterday hit Iwo Island, in the Volcano group half way to Tokyo, with "good results," a war department communique said.

A Pacific fleet communique reported other bombers damaged three Japanese destroyers and two cargo vessels in the Bonin-Volcano area in the 54th consecutive night sweep of enemy shipping lines in the archipelago last week-end.

Seventh air force Liberators also attacked Iwo in daylight Saturday for the 52nd straight day, the communique said.

PAT DUNN AGAIN TURNS GUNS ON WORKING WIVES

COLUMBUS, Jan. 30 — Democratic State Representative Patrick J. Dunn, of Tuscarawas county, today was off again on another crusade against working wives.

The fiery bachelor and veteran legislator sparked his biennial drive with the introduction of a bill to the 96th Ohio general assembly last night which would prohibit the employment of both husband and wife by the state.

Wallace Opens Drive For Cabinet Post By Appeal To Liberals

casion of the dinner, I am sure, is not one of farewell.

Counts On Wallace
"America, its people, and its government, need Henry Wallace now more than ever before. I count on his aid, his wisdom and his courage in the difficult ways to the magnificent hopes we hold for a world worthy of his faith in the people and of the struggles of free people everywhere, which have so splendidly justified that faith."

In his last minute interpolation, Wallace said he would prefer not to have the commerce post if a man incompatible to him was named head of the RFC. "I wish to make it clear," he said, "that if there were a serious danger—and I do not really think there is—of a too-little or too-late man being appointed I would prefer not to be secretary of commerce."

Wallace said his opponents feared the scope of his ideas, rather than any impractical schemes.

"They are not fighting a starry eyed liberal or a mystic," he said. "If they were they would not be worried. They know that with me in commerce there would be a continuous campaign for maximum production, maximum sales, maximum exports and imports, without which, he indicated, may come a great disaster after this war than it did after World War One."

Others supporting Wallace at the dinner included Henry J. Kaiser, west coast shipbuilder, Walter Reuther, vice president of the Union of Automobile Workers, and Sidney Hillman, CIO-PAC chairman and one of the dinner's sponsors.

come effective until after the war and would exempt welfare and educational institutions which frequently hire man and wife teams as matrons and superintendents.

Dunn said he decided to introduce the measure after discussing it with "more than 20 servicemen" during a train trip to Columbus. The peppery representative said that the servicemen had approved the proposal almost without exception as a means of providing postwar jobs.

However, the bill would not be-

WALLACE SURE TO LOSE RFC

inate any chance that the $40,000,000 Reconstruction Finance Corp., and its affiliates would fall under Wallace's control.

Some of Wallace's most vigorous senate opponents refused to agree to such a program, however. They wanted to defeat the Wallace nomination first and then vote to separate the RFC from the commerce department anyway.

Under routine senate procedure the George bill normally would come up ahead of the nomination, provided both were on the senate calendar on the same day.

To Act Thursday
Sen. Harry F. Byrd, D., Va., a leader in the anti-Wallace group, pointed out to reporters however, that a motion to take up executive business (including the Wallace nomination) would be in order the moment that the senate meets at noon Thursday.

Sen. Lister Hill, D., Ala., who as acting Democratic leader normally would control senate procedure, declined to say in what order he would call up the two controversial questions. He promised only that at least one would be taken up when the senate meets again Thursday.

Meanwhile, preliminary steps to clear the way for senate action on both questions were being taken by Chairman Josiah W. Bailey, D., N. C., of the senate commerce committee, which voted against Wallace's confirmation and for the George bill.

Bailey held up reporting the adverse action on the nomination until he could file simultaneously a written report on the George bill. He conceded it was an "unusual procedure," but explained it was "an unusual nomination."

Bailey, George and Sen. Kenneth D. McKellar, another Wallace opponent, conferred at length late yesterday and it was believed they were mapping strategy to get a vote on the Wallace nomination ahead of the George bill.

While the opposing sides jockeyed for position there was some unconfirmed talk of a possible compromise. Pepper conceded it might be "desirable" for President Roosevelt by executive order to separate the commerce department and RFC, in order to smooth the way for prompt senate confirmation, but said he had no definite knowledge that such a step was possible.

Sen. Albert B. Chandler, D., Ky., predicted that Wallace will withdraw from the picture rather than submit to certain defeat.

TASKS OF WAR FILL BIRTHDAY FOR PRESIDENT

63rd Anniversary Far Overshadowed By Meet Soon Of Big Three

on their 63rd birthdays think of leisure and retirement, the President was occupied solely by the titanic problems of ending the war in Europe this year and starting a permanent, international peace organization.

Faces Delicate Task
In the "Big Three" meeting particularly, the President faces a highly delicate situation, one requiring extreme tact along with forceful diplomacy. In this connection diplomats here pointed out that Stalin's position in the tripartite conference room grows stronger with every mile that his Soviet armies push into Germany.

Hopkins, confident, information gatherer and trouble-shooter for the President, has been in a series of conferences in recent days, talking with Churchill, and Gen. Charles DeGaulle, the French leader, in London, and Paris about the forthcoming conference. There were reports that Hopkins would make similar trips to Rome and Moscow. It was assumed that whatever Hopkins learned in his conferences would be reported to the President before the Big Three meeting.

President Ages
Outwardly, the President has aged visibly since he first entered the White House at the age of 51, but his doctors say he has aged no more, if as much, than the average man between his years of 51 and 63. The most recent word from his physician, Vice Admiral Ross T. McIntire, at the time of the January 20 inauguration, was that the President's health was basically good. McIntire was particularly happy about the President's escape from cold's this winter.

Despite the war, there was a festive air in Washington today, and in many other cities as the country prepared to observe Mr. Roosevelt's birthday at dances held to raise money for national, state and local funds to combat infantile paralysis.

COL. ELLIOTT LIKELY TO BE GENERAL SOON

WASHINGTON, Jan. 30 — Col. Elliott Roosevelt's nomination to the rank of brigadier general came up for senate military affairs committee today and many members predicted it would be approved.

Sen. Styles Bridges, R., N. Y., said he felt the record of the President's second son should be studied further, but expressed doubt that he had enough support to delay consideration.

The nomination, sandwiched in with those of 57 other colonels, was sent to the senate last week in the midst of the controversy over the travels of Blaise, young Roosevelt's big bull mastiff whose "A" priority enabled him to complete an air trip to Hollywood while three servicemen were put off the plane. The incident led to the appointment of a special subcommittee, headed by Bridges, to study travel priorities.

Sen. James E. Murray, D., Mont., said it was "unfortunate that Elliott Roosevelt got mixed up in that dog affair" but was confident the nomination would be approved. Sen. Edwin C. Johnson, D., Colo., also guessed that it would "go right through."

Another committee member noted that young Roosevelt had risen rapidly from the rank of captain in 1940, but said the committee endeavored not to delay actions on nominations of officers with overseas records. Young Roosevelt has served in the European theatre.

POLICE REMIND CITY MERCHANTS OF 'BROWNOUT'

City police Tuesday were notifying Circleville merchants to turn out window display lights and outdoor signs in compliance with the national "brownout" order which goes into effect Thursday.

According to provisions of the national order theatre marquee lights, all window display lights, even when stores are open at night, outside signs and any other lights not needed for interior illumination of the business place are to be turned out.

The national program is expected to save thousands of tons of coal, which is used to generate power by the electric companies. This is expected to help relieve the critical fuel situation which prevails in Circleville and most of the other communities in the nation, but the effect of the program will not be felt for some time.

Police reminded merchants that the WPB "brownout" order provides for the cutting off of electric power to violators of the order.

RICH TERRIER, DISINHERITED SON AT GRIPS

DETROIT, Jan. 30—The legal representative of Jack, a rotund fox terrier who inherited a house in Detroit, a house in Florida (with a leaky roof), an automobile and thousands of dollars in insurance, and Joseph R. White, an outraged son who inherited nothing from Mrs. Margaret Myers, come to grips in court today.

Mrs. Myers' will, which mentioned Jack in every paragraph and White in none, came before Probate Judge Joseph Murphy on a petition for admittance to probate. White, a son of Mrs. Myers by a previous marriage and now a resident of Abilene, Tex., states in no uncertain terms that he wants to take both roofs from over Jack's head. He charges that the will was a "temporary document."

More fitting as a permanent measure, he adds, would be himself as owner of the houses, car and insurance.

Two non-litigants also were watching the court struggle with deep interest. Herbert Kelly, a retired butcher, has been caring for Jack and by the terms of the will may live rent-free in the Detroit home as long as he cooks for the high-living terrier. Bob Cartwright who lives in the Sebring, Fla., home, complains that the roof leaks and that he isn't quite sure how to take the matter up with a fox terrier. He thinks he could do better with White.

HARPER FUNERAL
Funeral services were held January 23 in Zanesville for William Worth Harper, who died January 21 at his home in that city. Mr. Harper, a widely-known retired wholesale grocer, who was prominent in business and civic affairs in Zanesville for more than a half-century, was the husband of Marie Delaplaine Potwin, a former resident of Circleville.

TAKEN TO HOSPITAL
Howard Derexson, 19, an employee of the Cliftona theatre, was removed Monday to St. Anthony hospital, Columbus, for observation and treatment after becoming ill while on duty.

Two county schools were closed Tuesday following the latest snow. Darby township pupils were sent home Monday noon when it was indicated roads would become impassable and Atlanta did not open Tuesday because of road conditions. Others may be closed if the snow starts drifting. Even a slight wind would block township roads with drifts, it was feared.

Weather Observer Roy Hawkes said that 7 a. m. Tuesday three inches of snow was on the ground. A half-inch fell during the night. Continuing snow Tuesday morning may make the depth much greater.

Low temperature Tuesday morning was 16 while Monday's high was 24.

All roads were reported dangerous. Drifts were reported in some places on township roads while main highways were made slippery by hard-packed snow.

DRIVE ON RUHR MAY BEGIN SOON

AS AMERICAN NINTH ARMY troops captured the last four-mile section of the Siegfried Line before them, and British troops cleared a lengthy stretch of the west bank of the Roer River from Holland to below Duren, Allied military leaders predicted that a concerted drive on the Ruhr is imminent. According to Gen. Brehon B. Somervell, U. S. chief of services and supplies, the Allies now have enough men and materiel for a major offensive. Coupled with the withdrawal of Nazi troops to their faltering eastern front, the way appears clear for an offensive that will probably result in the overrunning of the vital Nazi industrial zone. ### LEAVING SCHOOL

AS a term ends in war plant cities, employers' representatives storm high schools begging students to come to work. By thousands young people are going into factories, stores and other occupations.

Perhaps at this time it is necessary. The last high hill of war must be mounted, and every ounce of national energy is needed to finish two wars and prepare for peace. But no boy or girl should leave school without having explained to him just what it means.

He is not, the nations hopes, leaving school permanently because money is now easy to earn. He is leaving temporarily because his services are needed for a short time to win this war. But no quick and easy money can compensate for what he loses when he leaves school with his full course unfinished. Today's money will be worth nothing ten years from now unless most of it is saved for future education.

For education is power. It is the means of earning money later, the means of enriching life, enjoying more keenly the fine things that are to be enjoyed. It means getting a higher type of pleasure, too, than that which comes to a young person with today's coin in the hand and little in the head. It means building into mind and character possibilities which can never be attained without it.

So go to the job if you must, boys and girls. But go knowing that you will return. And never forget that Education is Power.

BRITAIN'S BURDEN

BRITAIN is getting down to military hardpan. In the present mobilization of fighting men, which the British Labor Ministry calls unprecedented in the nation's history, there are only 11,000,000 people between the ages of 14 and 64 left to carry on the normal life of the nation. This entire age group, numbering about 33,000,000 people including women and children, has 22,250,000 of them rated as mobilized man power. The bare facts conjure up Kipling's prophetic lines: "Far-called, our navies melt away. On dune and headland sinks the fire. Lo, all our pomp of yesterday Is one with Nineveh and Tyre."

But before that fate is realized, Britain may be joined with Canada and the United States for a new lease of life.

Henry is more to be pitied than censured. Handling the government's "multi-million-dollar loan business" is the last thing most of us would want to do.

Inside WASHINGTON

Vice President Truman ..... Even General Marshall's
Believes in Old Maxims ..... Table Boasts No Buller

By HELEN ESSARY
Central Press Columnist

WASHINGTON—Perhaps one of the things wrong with the world is its lack of interest in copy book maxims. You know the old ones "Honesty is the best policy" and "Time and tide wait for no man," and so on.

The new vice president believes in maxims. His favorite maxim Truman gave to Miss Bertha Joseph, secretary to Senator George Radcliffe of Maryland. It hangs in clear type and well framed on the first wall you see as you enter Miss Joseph's Capitol door and says: "It's what you learn after you know it all that counts."

Senator Harry Byrd also has had a stout-hearted maxim framed for friends. His philosophy reads, "If it won't help win the war—forget it."

GEN. GEORGE C. MARSHALL received many Christmas and New Year presents from admirers. One offering was two cases of pinch bottle Scotch! Yet with such a store of good cheer, the general's holiday dinners had to be eaten with dry bread. Like other people less highly placed in the world, the Marshalls had no ration points for butter.

Gen. Henry H. Arnold, chief of the Army Air Forces, raises chickens. He raises them in his own back yard at Fort Myer, Va. Roosters, too.

I understand, however, that the roosters have succumbed to the discipline of the Army post and do not crow until ordered. This reminds me that Miss Lou Rayburn, who is visiting her brother, Speaker of the House Sam Rayburn, doesn't have to worry about ration points—when she is home in Texas. On her brother's farm Miss Lou, as she is affectionately called, raises fowl, beef and pork

NEWS BEHIND THE NEWS

By PAUL MALLON

WASHINGTON, Jan. 30—Hon. Carl Mundt, member house committee to investigate un-American activities:

Dear Mr. Mundt:

You have asked me, among others, to give you some recommendations as to the scope and standard of your proposed investigation of un-American activities.

Well, there are un-American activities in the United States as the newspapers and the patriotic organizations have frequently noted and more than have been noted.

It seems to me the Dies committee only scratched the surface of them, and provided our people with what really amounted only to a suspicion of them rather than a thorough and complete understanding of methods and operations.

For a rather obvious example, no one, not even American labor leaders has an accurate, agreed knowledge today of the extent to which communists have influenced the American labor movement.

At the recent CIO convention in Chicago, I noticed the known communists were held quietly in the background. At least when the pictures were taken they were.

But how much did their intentions gain headway in the decisions made by the convention? To what extent was their influence reflected in the decisions of the convention? How many are there in CIO? How do they work?

The AFL and other non-CIO union leaders have denounced communism. It would seem from the CIO pretenses and the AFL stand that labor leaders themselves might be interested in going right to the bottom of the matter at long last, not for political reasons or from a standpoint of raising a counter propaganda but for finding out definitely what the facts are.

In short, the committee might well drop both the whitewash brush and the red paint brush in favor of a judicial and complete search for all the facts.

To what extent are racial sores being rubbed in this nation for un-American purposes? So far we have been moving along the line of making corrections of claimed injustices and this of course is only right and fair.

But it cannot be forgotten that the basic original scheme of the communist, and I think most other revolutionary ideologies which have worked their way into this country from abroad is to foment quietly racial uprisings, and to play always toward developing racial competition.

Psychologically we are at a disadvantage with foreign revolutionaries in these and similar public matters covering the whole of diplomacy and politics. We operate openly and above board, discuss all our ills in public.

Anti-American as well as all foreign interests well know this and join our discussions, not necessarily openly, (for this would defeat their purpose) but in subtle ways to influence our judgement. Our plays, movies, literature, and art have seemed to me often to reflect these propaganda subtleties, playing adroitly upon the political emotions of our people, taking advantage of their democratic feelings.

Without any direct knowledge, but judging only from the results I see, I would say there is evidence of many deep-rooted schemes developed through many years in many ways to play upon our heartstrings for un-American interests.

Now if the post-war world is going to be what Mr. Roosevelt is planning that it

SISSIES AND BRUTES

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M.D.

IN THE discussion yesterday of the objective methods we have for examination of the endocrine system, I said that some of the symptoms most prominently associated in the public's mind with endocrine gland disorders were personality changes, and that for these we have no reliable tests.

Dr. Clendening will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.

Whether to ascribe them to ductless gland disorders is left to the examining doctor's opinion. Some modification of this statement is permissible and it especially applies to that very familiar phenomenon of maleness in the female and femaleness in the male.

Slissies and Brutes

Everybody knows them—the slissies and the brutes in short skirts and brogans that are out for the ten mile tramp no matter what the weather. The lady wrestlers and golf champions and the boys who like to paint china. Not that necessarily a lady can't be a golf champion and not remain quite feminine too, but I'm trying to make my point in brief words.

The woman in politics inclines to a somewhat masculine habit of thought. As Senator Vest once asked in a rather emotional form of argument—"How would you like to come home at night and be kissed by a justice of the peace?"—but this was when "Votes for Women" was in its infancy.

Of course all of us have some mixture of both. There is a feminine streak in some tough movie actors which they like to bring out in their hard-boiled roles. And for all their beauty and delicacy, I darskly suspect that there is quite a lot of he-man in most charming women.

Measuring Physical Features

There are methods of measuring the physical features if not the spiritual qualities that indicate maleness and femaleness. It would be possible to line up a group of men who represented only very gradually the change from the perfectly characteristic male contour of wide shoulders, narrow hips, non-approximating spans between the legs, and large hands and feet to the last man in line who had narrow shoulders, broad hips, and tapering fingers and toes. And the same thing could be done in reverse with a series of women.

How much the endocrine glands have to do with all this is very debatable. The sex incidence of various diseases is largely a complete mystery. Why, for instance, should gout affect men in 98 per cent of cases, women in only 2 per cent? Why should gallstones occur 83 per cent of the time in women, 17 per cent in men? While such conditions as pernicious anemia and diabetes affect men and women exactly equally. Why should whooping cough light on girls more often than boys? These conditions have nothing to do directly with the characteristic male or female organs.

Extracts of Dutiless Gland

Nor has there been any real success resulting from the attempts to improve these conditions by giving extracts of the ductless glands or by any other physical methods.

The best wisdom we have to give these "mixed" people is that instead of resenting implications or realizations of maleness in the female and femaleness in the male, they can accept the situation and derive great spiritual strength from the proper balance and application of the factors. The factors are not necessarily antagonistic. The typical he-man and she-female do not represent very agreeable or strong types.

Tenderness in the man and courage and virility in the woman are not disadvantages—quite the contrary to the development of a rounded and perfect personality.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

R. L.—Will X-ray treatments cure a person of abdominal adhesions from an operation?
Answer: No.

1. A. S. W.—Does the use of bromides over a long period of time ever do any harm?
2. L. G.—What is the remedy you recommend for eruption on the skin caused by prolonged use of bromides and headache remedies?

Answer: Yes, quinine causes a skin rash. Either of the drugs mentioned might cause dimness of vision.

M. E. R.—Can you give any sensible advice on ventilation that will keep our houses from being cold as barns every morning by roomers who regardless of strong winds, open their windows to the top? My roomer insists that a strong gale of wind blowing in his bedroom is necessary to his health.

Answer: If I knew the answer to this one I could certainly use it myself. The world ought to be divided into the cold bedroom and the warm bedroom advocates. But I don't. I do not believe either make much difference in health, but try and tell them so!

CHAPTER FIFTEEN

Dr. Davis rose in a leisurely manner. "Frum," he began, "refers to an old friend and business associate of Calder's and Waite's and mine. Sarah's, too. A man named Hank Bogarty. A self-taught engineer and metallurgist. He spent a summer here—long ago. Long ago, I had a wire from him yesterday saying he was coming on to get another stake. I—well, I must say, I thought it was a joke. Not that I didn't think he was coming."

"Why did you think it was a joke?"

The surgeon hesitated, glanced at Waite, and then said casually, "Why, because it was our understanding, through the years, that Hank Bogarty had done very well in the West. Didn't need money. I imagined he sent the wire in a spirit of fun—to remind us of the old days—and nothing more."

Was looking thoughtfully from one face to another. "I see. And he hasn't checked in?"

Waite and Davis shook their heads and shrugged. The surgeon glanced at Jack Browne—who also shook his head.

Dr. Davis said finally, "He wired from Albany. Deliveries are late around here, as you know. He might have spent the night there. He was probably driving—since the train service is poor. Maybe he had an accident. Maybe he changed his mind and decided not to come. It ought to be easy to learn about Hank Bogarty—and I, personally, feel that Dr. Plum is injecting a good many irrelevant matters into this discussion."

Several other people muttered the same thing. The investigation continued for another half hour. Then, rather abruptly, the captain dismissed them. "I think that will be all. I don't believe there's any ground for believing there was foul play. We'll do a thorough job on that deadfall, of course. Fingerprints, and so on. But if I were you, folks, I'd just try to forget it—and sleep well tonight."

Aggie heard Waite say, "With Jim Calder gone—everybody ought to sleep better!"

Then he walked out of the club. He knew Sarah would be waiting for him—and he had a great deal to tell her. For more than she'd bargained for. He started walking briskly toward the cottage.

Behind him came Captain Wes Wickman, walking even more briskly. When Aggie perceived that he was being followed, which was very soon, he waited. The trooper came up and fell into step. They walked a hundred yards before he spoke—and Aggie had no intention of starting a conversation with him. The policeman's words startled him.

"Say, Plum. Why in the name of sin were you tagging that Davis guy? You're not the type—and don't go on trying to make out you are! I read your book about Primitives on the Tundra—had to, compulsory at school—and I know you're not the guy to trail blondes and indiscreet husbands. Or—" Aggie struck him—"are you stuck on Daniels?"

Aggie then explained about Sarah, her self-appointed mission in life, and her inhibiting mumps. It was an explanation he had intended to make, anyway—in private. The policeman choked with laughter. He leaned against a tree, slapped his thigh, and blew his nose. Finally he said, "Sarah! What a woman! I ought to have guessed it! Lord, Plum, the Indian Stones are going to look down their noses at you for this! If they don't learn the facts, they'll think you're some sort of social monster!" Then he became calmer—quite serious. "You don't believe that guy just happened to shove himself into that trap, do you?"

"Do you?"

The trooper considered. "I think it's possible."

"Mmm. Yes. Possible."

"And darned unlikely."

"As you say—darned."

"See here, Plum. I tagged along to find out if you'd come clean with me—and you did. I questioned that whole job together because I wanted to see how they affected each other. I got the net impression that even if somebody had bumped off Jim Calder, the majority of our friends here would be for hushing it up. They don't like scandal or bad publicity. They're clannish. I darsay it's a good riddance. Waite—for instance—"

"What about Waite? He was in a sweat."

The policeman's eye again darted approvingly over the figure of the bearded man. "You got that, eh? Well—in those papers Bill tried to get was a bunch of correspondence from Waite. I glanced at it. No time for anything but a glance. But, if ever one man hated another, Waite hated Calder. You know that Calder had a reputation for squeezing the blood out of even his best friends—"

Aggie nodded. "Heard about it."

"He must have bored into Waite. And Waite's a first-rate miser. Mean guy about money, anyhow. I remember driving a baseball through the windshield of his car once." The trooper smiled. "Anyhow, Waite's letters were full of stuff about what 'ought' to be done to Calder. Boiling him in oil was the gentlest I ran across. There were more threats than there are feathers on a goose."

"Too many," Aggie said. Then he frowned. "On the other hand, if you were going to push somebody over, it might be very ingenious to write a sheaf of wildly threatening missives. I mean—the police would assume that nobody would threaten so much, and then actually take the risk of doing the job."

"Thought of that. It's a possibility. If Calder was deliberately killed, the person who did it was darned imaginative. Darned. Imaginative to lure him into that trap—or to bang him one and carry him to it."

Aggie chuckled. They had reached the beginning of Sand Creek. "I thought, earlier this evening, that you were pretty stupid. I'm wrong."

Federation of Women's Clubs Cancels Meet

Ohio Organization Heeds Request of Washington

Mrs. Ray W. Davis, Montclair avenue, president of the Southern District of the Ohio Federation of Women's clubs, announced Tuesday that the State convention, that had been planned for April 3 and 4 in Columbus, had been cancelled. The cancellation was made to comply with the government request that conventions of more than 50 persons be eliminated this year to lessen travel by rail and bus.

The Monday club of Circleville, a member of the Federation, recently named delegates to the state congress.

Mrs. Davis also announced that the State Federation was sponsoring Bill 36 in the state legislature, that concerns the purchase of land for a Memorial Forest. The land is located in Ashland county, adjacent to the Mohican Forest.

Mrs. Davis described the land as having been cut over and abandoned for farm use. The bill is to appropriate money to purchase the land.

After the bill is passed and the land purchased, the Ohio Federation of Women's clubs is to pay for all the trees used in the reforestation. The Memorial Forest is to be cared for by the state department of forestry.

A memorial shrine is to be erected there and is to contain names of all men and women who have died in World War II in the service of their country. The names are being collected in each county, a chairman for the work in Pickaway county to be chosen in the near future.

The Memorial Shrine, to be designed by a well-known architect, is to be constructed of native stone from all parts of Ohio. A tree is to be planted for each person who died in the war.

Funds are being collected for the project through Federated clubs all over the state. The Shrine is to be completed and dedicated within the next two years.

The forest itself will contain about 200 acres and will be set aside as a nature sanctuary.

Bill 36 is being considered by the conservation committee of the legislature Wednesday night. C. Stanley Mechem, of Nelsonville, is chairman of the committee. Letters have been sent to all clubs in the area asking members to write to Mr. Addison and Mr. Wolcott, members of the legislature, in the interest of this bill.

POLICE ARREST FIVE CAGERS IN GAMBLING PROBE

Brooklyn Players Say They Agreed To 'Throw' Game With Akron

NEW YORK, Jan. 30.—A sweeping nationwide investigation of big time collegiate basketball appeared certain today following revelation that five Brooklyn college players had admitted conspiring with gamblers to throw a game against Akron University at Boston tomorrow night for $8,000.

It was the first specific revelation that any players actually had been involved in dealings with gamblers, although there have been persistent rumors for some time that bookmakers had been making "killings" on major collegiate games, here and in other large cities.

The players held for questioning by Assistant District Attorney Edward A. Heffernan of Kings county (Brooklyn) were Bernard Barnett, Bob Leder, the team captain and its leading scorer, Larry Pearlstein, Jerry Green, and Stanley Simon. Heffernan said they would be used as material witnesses against the alleged gamblers, Harvey Stemmer and Henry Rosen, whom he said would be arraigned on charges of bribery and conspiracy.

It was the old story, Heffernan said, of college youths wanting easy spending money and not having it, then suddenly being given a quick way to acquire it.

Barnett and Pearlstein, the first players to be apprehended, admitted he said, that they received a series of mysterious telephone calls by persons who said they could "make some quick dough" by throwing basketball games. They admitted getting in touch

GAME CANCELLED

BOSTON, Jan. 30.—Tom Kanaly, general manager and acting president of the Boston Garden, said today that a basketball game scheduled tomorrow between Brooklyn College and Akron University would be cancelled because of the disclosure in New York of an alleged plan to "throw" the game. "The Brooklyn story is shocking and the game is cancelled immediately," Kanaly said. He added that attempts would be made today to sign a substitute team to play Akron.

eventually with Rosen and after a brief discussion on Jan. 22, each of the five players involved was given a $100 bill. The next day, Barnett said, one of them received $500, which he divided equally among himself and the others.

That amount was advanced on account with the remaining $2,000 to be delivered after the game, they said.

Heffernan said the players told him that they had agreed not only to drop the game, but that they would do it by a "given number of points." Thus bookmakers not involved in the deal would be subjected to heavy losses if plans went through as contemplated.

Although there appeared to be no established liaison with regular bookmakers on the proposed "coup," it was easy to see that by establishing Brooklyn College to lose by a fixed number of points, the professional bet takers could win wagers on both teams.

Heffernan emphasized that Akron's players were "absolutely in the clear and in no way involved."

The players also admitted they had made preliminary plans for Brooklyn College to throw its game against St. Francis college, one of the weaker metropolitan teams, in a scheduled game at Madison Square Garden on Feb. 10.

Promoter Ned Irish, who arranges all scheduled Madison Square Garden games told the United Press that "it is too bad such a thing had to happen, but I certainly think it is a good thing that the police are vigilant to protect the integrity of the game and to clear other teams which have been unjustly accused of complicity with gamblers."

"If the players not involved are given a clean bill of health, by the school authorities, I see no reason why the game with St. Francis should not go on as scheduled," he said.

Police said the conspiracy was revealed "accidentally" while detectives trailed one of the alleged gamblers as a fence for stolen goods. When Barnett and Pearlstein made a visit to his home they followed them and picked them up for questioning. They implicated both Stemmer and Rosen and the other three players.

Although Brooklyn has not been one of the stronger Metropolitan teams this season, the Kingsmen have won seven games while losing four.

The Brooklyn coach, Maurice Raskin, said he was "crushed over the whole affair."

"They were fine, splendid boys," he said. "I can't understand what could have made them do such a thing."

CHS TIGERS TRY FOR SIXTH WIN

Three Other Basketball Games Also Slated For Tonight

Circleville high school Tigers will make another try for their sixth basketball win of the season Tuesday night when they play host to the Linden McKinley club on the Roll and Bowl floor.

Players and fans were not exactly satisfied with the final results when the Tigers dropped a 50-49 game at Columbus several weeks ago and the Tigers will be trying to get even tonight.

Coach Roy Black said Tuesday Jack Hennis, Freck Heath, Bob Lovensheimer and Jim Dade would start against Linden. Fifth starter will be decided just before game time. Earl Palm, Dick Shaw and Dale Delong are leading the scrap for the position. Others likely to break into action are Leonard Hill and Porter Winner.

First game Tuesday is set for 7:15 p. m. between reserves of the two schools. The younger Tigers took a 38-9 beating at Linden but have shown a lot of improvement since that date and plan to give the visiting boys a battle.

The varsity contest is scheduled to start shortly after the reserve game ends.

Other games scheduled for Tuesday night are Groveport at Ashville; Walnut at Williamsport; Pickaway at Centralia.

FUEL SAVING REQUEST DELAYS CAGE SCHEDULES

COLUMBUS, Jan. 30.—Ohio high school basketball, already operating under difficulties because of bad winter transportation, today was faced with the problem of reshuffling schedules to meet a request that public meetings be dispensed with during the coal shortage.

Many school officials, voluntarily complying with a request by C. J. Potter, solid fuel administrator, for conservation of fuel because of a freight tie-up in northeastern states, have postponed games until the emergency period ends.

Athletic officials in Northern Ohio and Cleveland are attempting to reschedule games so that night games may be held in the afternoon.

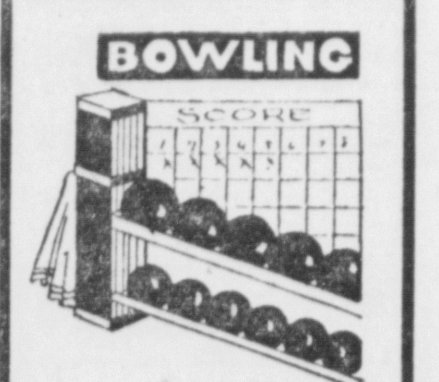

Meanwhile, school officials at Bellevue, which defeated Mansfield, 41-34, for its 10th straight triumph, severed athletic relations with the Tigers following "an altercation" similar to incidents said to have brought an athletic severance by Findlay earlier this year.

Middletown, which defeated Hamilton, 49-20, for its 12th victory in defense of its Class A championship, is scheduled to play Lima South Friday, while Akron Ellet, which walloped Kent State, 42-11, in defense of its Class B title, will play at Stow.

Upsets littered the basketball trail, last week Marietta, which walloped Williamstown, 86-17, Friday for its 12th victory, was upset by Dover, 61-39, Saturday. Hartsville nosed out North Canton, 35-32, to end the Vikings' win list of 14 games, while Wilshire defeated Ridge, 43-25, which previously won 12 games in a row.

VICTOR MOORE VISITS BERLE
Victor Moore, the immortal Vice-President Throttlebottom of George Gershwin's "Of Thee I Sing," will be a candidate for laugh honors when he appears on Milton Berle's "Let Yourself Go," Wednesday.

ALLEN, BUSSE GUESTS
Fred Allen, Henry Busse, Car-

balance driver. Yet, in two of the recent "David Harding—Counter-spy" espionage dramas, aired on Wednesdays, Harris has portrayed naive tools of German spies who unknowingly helped them in their dirty work! That's character acting!

Joseph Cotten, one of the most frequent guest stars on "Suspense," returns to that program on Thursday. Oddly enough, the actor, now in demand as a portrayal of "spooky" roles, first gained fame as a handsome juvenile! Cotten played the male lead opposite Katharine Hepburn in the Broadway version of "The Philadelphia Story," then left the play for a Hollywood contract. It was soon after his first "Suspense" role that Alfred Hitchcock, a frequent listener to the program, signed him to play a murderer. Since then, he's been known as "Killer" Cotten.

The Abbott and Costello airshow, which placed in the top three on the Radio Daily poll, recently achieved another distinction when the New York Boys Club voted "Sebastian" (played by Lou) as their candidate for king—only they worded it: "The Guy We'd Most Like To Crown!"

On February 1, 1944, an Army sergeant stationed in Skagway, Alaska, wrote to maestro Paul Lavalle, requesting a recording of "I Love You," a tune Lavalle had done while he had the Lower Basin Street program. The card bears postmarks indicating a complete encirclement of the globe, and maestro Lavalle received it only last week; it spent 50 weeks in travel! Lavalle wrote to the sergeant, telling him that he would make a special off-the-air recording of the tune, and hold the disc until the sergeant can pick it up personally. He's hoping that date is not too distant.

Marion Loveridge has been elected 1945 National Sweetheart of the Military Order of the Purple Heart. This is the second consecutive year that the pretty 16 year old singer has been elected to that honor. The election was a highlight of the meeting held by the National Executive Committee of the M. O. P. H. held in Chicago last week.

U-boats of Germany's dwindling sub fleet are said to now travel in packs of 25. Naturally, since misery loves company.

Grand Jury To Consider Accusations Against 11 Persons

MURDER CHARGE HEADS LIST OF CRIMES PROBED

New Prosecutor Summons 35 Witnesses To Give Evidence

Charges against 11 persons will be considered when the January term grand jury of Pickaway county common pleas court convenes at 9 a. m. Wednesday.

Presenting the charges to the grand jury for the first time will be Prosecutor Kenneth M. Robbins, who took office January 1, following his election at last November's election. All cases except one that he will present to the jurors were bound over from lower courts before he took office.

Charges to be studied range from murder down. A second degree murder charge was filed against Charles Rufus Everett, accused of shooting to death Avery Harris, Ashville, on Christmas eve.

Other cases to be heard are: Charles Struper, assault and battery; Jack Mogan, taking property without consent; William L. Amos, unlawful striking; Frank Hoffman, displaying fictitious license plates; Loring McAbee, second degree manslaughter in connection with the traffic death of Edward Reese; Robert Griffen, forgery; William S. Duey, failure to provide for children; Dewey Snyder, second degree manslaughter in connection with the traffic death of John Buzzard; Charles Edgar Hiles, taking property without consent; William Estep, operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of alcohol.

Thirty-five witnesses have been called to testify in the cases.

Grand jurors called for the session are: Doyle Cupp, Circleville; Mary McKinzie, Route 4, Circleville; Mrs. Bertha LaRue, Madison township; Irvin Millar, Route 1, Ashville; Miss Kathryn Mead, Circleville; Faye Bailey, Monroe township; Vernon Shockey, Darby township; Gladys C. Harden, Monroe township; Ben E. Downs, Muhlenberg township; Charles Mack, Circleville; Mrs. Frank Teegardin, Route 2, Ashville; John Lewis, Circleville; Ray Ridgeway, Derby; Dudley Steele, Route 3, Circleville; Virgil Caudy, Monroe township.

GOOD RESPONSE IN MARCH OF DIMES CAMPAIGN

The Business and Professional Women's Club committee which has sponsored the March of Dimes campaign in Circleville and Pickaway county reported Tuesday that a good response has been received.

No check on the amount of money raised in the campaign has been made because cards placed in business places were sent directly to national headquarters.

Wednesday is the last day of the campaign and it is believed that many persons have not been able to contribute because of the bad weather. Those who wish to make contributions may mail the money to Mrs. Harriet Hennis, Chairman March of Dimes campaign, county health office, Court House, Circleville.

GUARDIAN APPOINTED

Henry Schwalbaugh, Watt street, was given emergency room treatment Monday in Berger hospital for an injury.

KIWANIS HEARS BOYS, GIRLS IN MUSIC PROGRAM

Nine students from Pickaway township school presented the Kiwanis Club program Monday evening in Hanley's restaurant.

Vocal numbers were presented by a mixed ensemble which included Nancy McGinnis, Rita Rhoads, Patty Wolfe, June Hildebrand, Bob Wilson, Mac Wolfe, Martin Sharrett and Gene Sharrett. Solos were given by Bob Wilson and Nancy McGinnis. The girls ensemble also gave a number.

Mary Penn was the accompanist for the singers who were under the direction of Glen Uhl, music instructor at the school. Superintendent John Hardin also was a guest at the meeting.

It was announced that the club would sponsor a scrap drive in Circleville Wednesday afternoon, February 7. Collections will be made by Kiwanis members, starting at 1 p. m. Kenneth Robbins is chairman of the committee in charge of the drive.

W. L. Sproule announced the Kiwanis bowling team would compete Wednesday night in league play.

Joseph J. Horst, superintendent of Deer Creek township schools, was introduced as a new member of the club.

RHODAS FUNERAL

Committal services for Betty Wanda Rhoads, infant daughter of Mrs. Howard Rhoads, 210½ West Elm street, Washington C. H., were held Monday at 11 a. m. in the cemetery of that community. The Rev. R. Byron Carver officiated. The child, a granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Rhoads, of near Circleville, died Sunday at 3:30 a. m. The child's father was killed in Germany two months ago. Surviving in addition to the mother are one brother, William Eugene, three, and Mr. and Mrs. Clark Pollard, of Washington, and Mr. and Mrs. Rhoads, the grandparents.

ALIMONY ORDERED

The defendant in the divorce case of Nellie Rhoads against Leslie B. Rhoads was ordered to pay $10 a week temporary alimony and plaintiff's attorney fees by Judge Meeker Terwilliger Monday.

NEWS Behind the NEWS

By PAUL MALLON

(Continued from Page Four) should be, so much the more we need to know the whole truth about these hidden streams of influence.

The totalitarian way of life is not going to be extinguished by this war. Attempts to influence American judgment are not going to stop with the peace. These streams will not be dried up by the treaty.

The totalitarians do not operate openly and above board, do not let their people weigh two sides or more of all matters, and then decide.

Our way is to fight propaganda with truth. The only way you can know truth is to get the facts. What are the facts? I think it is up to your committee to find out.

Sincerely,
Paul Mallon.

DIVORCE GRANTED

Divorce was granted the plaintiff on charges of gross neglect when the case of Mary Ellen E. Downs against Charles Dewey Downs was heard by Judge Meeker Terwilliger in common pleas court Monday. Custody of two children was given to the plaintiff and the court approved a property settlement between the parties.

Annual Meeting Of Pickaway County Farm Bureau In Progress

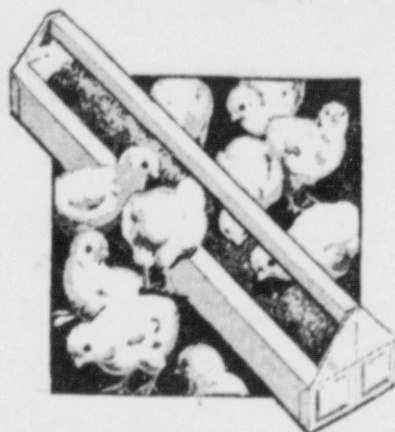

Joint annual meeting of the Pickaway County Farm Bureau and Pickaway Livestock Cooperative Association opened at 10:45 a. m. in Memorial hall.

President Paul W. Cromley called the livestock meeting to order. Rev. G. F. Hanover offered the invocation. Secretary's report was given by C. E. Dick and manager's report by Harry J. Briggs. Following election of two directors the livestock meeting adjourned in favor of the Farm Bureau meeting.

T. M. Glick, president, was in charge. Reports were given by Secretary S. E. Beers, Treasurer E. H. Fetherolf; L. R. Liston, field man; M. R. Greist, district insurance manager; Service Manager Briggs. Other speakers were F. K. Blair, county extension agent; C. C. Bair and Glenn Diller, field service representatives. Committees were appointed and music furnished by a vocal trio.

Barbecued beef was the main item at the lunch hour.

The afternoon session was to open at 1:15 p. m. with music. Reports of resolutions and nominations committees were to be made by Ralph E. May and H. O. Peters. Following music by the vocal trio, M. D. Lincoln, executive secretary of the Ohio Farm Bureau, was the speaker.

Title 32—National Defense
Chapter IX—War Production Board
Part 4500—Power, Water, Gas and Central Steam Heat
(Utilities Order U-9)

§4500.41 Utilities Order U-9. (a) PURPOSE OF THIS ORDER. War requirements have created a shortage of the supply of coal and other fuels. The purpose of this order is to save fuels used in the generation of electricity by prohibiting certain unnecessary uses of electricity.

(b) DEFINITIONS. For the purpose of this order: (1) "Person" means any individual, partnership, association, business trust, corporation, political subdivision, governmental agency or corporation or any organized group of persons whether incorporated or not.

(2) "Electric Supplier" means any person who generates, transmits or distributes electricity.

(c) PROHIBITED USES. No person shall use electricity for any of the following purposes: (1) Outdoor advertising and outdoor promotional lighting.

(2) Outdoor display lighting except where necessary for the conduct of the business of outdoor establishments.

(3) Outdoor decorative and outdoor ornamental lighting.

(4) Show window lighting in excess of 60 watts for each marquee.

(5) Marquee lighting in excess of the amount determined by local public authority.

(6) White way street lighting in excess of the amount determined by local public authority to be necessary for public safety.

(7) Outdoor sign lighting except for: (i) Directional or identification signs required for fire and police protection, traffic control, transportation terminals or hospitals; or directional or identification signs for any similar essential public services the lighting of which is specifically certified to be necessary by local public authority. Certification shall be in writing to the appropriate electric supplier and need not be in any particular form.

(ii) Directional or identification signs used in connection with this order by the War Production Board for doctors and for hotels, and other public lodging establishments.

(d) EXEMPTIONS. (1) Any electric supplier who considers that compliance with this order for doctors and for hotels, and other public lodging establishments, will reduce the consumption of coal or other scarce fuels may apply for exemption for the area it serves to the Office of War Production Board, Washington 25, D. C., Rel: U-9.

(2) The War Production Board may from time to time issue directions exemptions designated areas from this order if it finds that compliance with such areas will not reduce the consumption of coal or other scarce fuels in accordance with the purpose of this order.

(e) APPEALS. Any person affected by this order who considers that compliance with this order will work an exceptional or unreasonable hardship on him or who considers that compliance will endanger public health or safety may appeal for relief to the District Office of the War Production Board for the area in which the consumer is located. Rel: U-9.

(f) NOTICES. (1) Every electric supplier shall, as soon as practicable, notify by publication or otherwise all persons to whom it supplies electricity for a violation of this order by a person to whom it supplies electricity. It shall inform the person in writing of the specific terms of the notice to the District Office of the War Production Board for the area in which the consumer is located. Rel: U-9.

(2) If any electric supplier has knowledge of a violation of this order by a person to whom it supplies electricity, it shall notify the person in writing of the specific terms of the notice to the District Office of the War Production Board for the area in which the consumer is located. Rel: U-9.

(g) VIOLATIONS. If the War Production Board determines that any person is using electricity in violation of this order, it may direct the electric supplier serving such person to disconnect service and prescribe the conditions under which service may be reconnected. In addition, any person who willfully violates any provision of this order or who in connection with this order willfully conceals a material fact or furnishes false information to any department or agency of the United States is guilty of a crime and upon conviction may be punished by fine or imprisonment.

(h) EFFECTIVE DATE. The effective date of paragraph (c) of this order shall be February 1, 1945.

Issued this 15th day of January, 1945.

WAR PRODUCTION BOARD
By: J. Joseph Whelan
Recording Secretary

Although this Order does not become effective until Feb. 1, Justice Byrnes, Director of War Mobilization, has requested voluntary curtailment of unnecessary lighting prior to the effective date of the above Order.
